Nova Scotia this morning.

5 government stories since yesterday,
3 breaking.

4 PROVINCIAL 1 MUNICIPAL

School support workers could strike Monday without a deal

CUPE says more than 5,500 school support workers will get 48-hour strike notice Friday, Oct. 30, unless demands are met. Premier Tim Houston called the province's offer more than fair.

OCT 28, 2026

Source: Global News.

Province orders Halifax to loosen planning rules for housing

Ministers John White and John A. MacDonald set new HRM planning requirements, including apartments wherever hotels are allowed and mass timber up to 12 storeys. The first changes are due Jan. 15, 2027.

OCT 28, 2026

Source: Government of Nova Scotia.

Premier's office complains to professor over data centre comments

Premier Tim Houston's office complained to Toronto Metropolitan University professor Sibo Chen about his comments on the Cape Breton AI data centre. Chen says the complaint looks like an attempt to intimidate him.

OCT 28, 2026

Source: The Canadian Press.

MLAs question EverWind on $10-billion Cape Breton data centre

EverWind told a legislature committee a deal with the province would protect power rates and water. Opposition leaders called for legislation and an environmental assessment.

OCT 27, 2026

Source: The Canadian Press.

Halifax council delays decision on bike network alternatives

Council sent a staff report on 7 cheaper routes to 2 transportation committees first. The all ages and abilities network is now estimated at $85 million, up from $25 million.

OCT 27, 2026

Source: Global News.

That was Nova Scotia at 5:00 a.m.

Events that fill. Campaigns that win. We plan conferences, AGMs and campaign announcements across Canada.

Book a 20-minute call